ABSTRACT

The spelling program described in this manual was designed with the idea that spelling study initiated in the elementary grades should continue through the middle school years. The manual first describes the program's objectives: to help students learn basic spelling rules, develop an interest in word lore and vocabulary improvement, and develop permanent spelling power. It then gives instructions for the teacher in administering the program. The manual consists of 32 lessons, including word lists, spelling demons, survival words, spelling rules on plurals and suffixes, tricky word pairs, homonyms, and word endings. Included in the manual are seven supplementary lessons on foreign word origins, and a separate section for spelling enrichment with words that are new or less familiar to students than those in the regular lessons. RATIONALE OF THE STUDY OF SPELLING AND OF THE PROJECT

A formal study of spelling initiated in the elementary grades needs to continue during the student's middle school years. The forming of words from letters according to accepted usage is a study that can be individualized or taught through the traditional approach. Both methods are employed by teachers of English in the Williamsport Area School District.

This manual offers a traditional approach to the study of spelling for seventh grade as compiled by two teachers of the school district, Kristine Datres and Barbara Heggenstaller, after two years of designing and implementing the lessons in their seventh grade classes. The manual is a welcome addition to the English teacher's resource.

Supervisor of English

PROJECT OBJECTIVES

As a result of having received instruction in spelling, students will:

1. Demonstrate an ability to understand and apply some basic spelling rules.

2. Demonstrate an ability to recognize some common spelling problems and inconsistencies.

3. Be responsible for proofreading their own written work demonstrating a desire to spell correctly.

4. Develop an interest in word lore and vocabulary development through the study of homonyms, word origins, foreign words, etc.

5. Develop permanent spelling power by observing the rules of spelling.

SPELLING PROCEDURE

This spelling program is designed to be used by the teacher who will dictate a lesson each week. Each lesson will be reproduced in the student's notebook.

Students will need a composition book containing at least thirty-six pages or a section especially for spelling set aside in their daily notebooks. This special notebook or section of a notebook will be referred to as their spelling notebook.

The following plan is suggested. (The teacher may want the students to copy this plan in the front of their spelling notebook.)

1. New lessons are introduced each Friday. To begin, the rule(s) for the lesson is either written on the chalkboard or dictated and then explained. Students copy this into their spelling notebook.

2. A pretest, which contains words that follow the rule(s), is dictated by the teacher.

3. The list of correctly spelled words can be put on the chalkboard and hidden by a projection screen or a sheet of paper. The students correct their own pretests. Some teachers may prefer to check the students' pretests themselves.

4. Each misspelled word should be written ten times. This may be done on the next page in the spelling notebook or on a separate sheet of paper. This assignment must be handed in on Monday.

5. The teacher should check the students' spelling notebooks to be certain that each misspelled word has been correctly written ten times. (If a word is not corrected and/or written ten times, as a penalty it is to be written 25-100 times. The number of times a word is written is left to the discretion of the teacher.)

6. When the spelling notebook is returned, the students are to study the misspelled words. If a student fails to write the misspelled words he/she is not permitted to take the final test on Friday resulting in a 0.

7. On the following Friday, a final test of 10-20 words is dictated and then graded. It is not necessary to give all words of the lesson in the final test; the teacher should be selective. In some lessons the test words are given in sentence form and students are expected to write the complete sentence.

8. After the final test is given, a new lesson is begun.

9. Any student who does not miss any words in the pretest should be excused from further work with the list of words, including the taking of the final test. Such students should be permitted to turn to supplementary activities.

All lessons are numbered to facilitate make-up work.

The spelling program contains thirty-two lessons, four review lessons, and seven supplementary lessons.

Spelling lessons need to be more than just a rule and a list of words each week. Students should be encouraged to proofread all written work. Good spelling habits should carry over into all academic subjects.

SECTION ON ENRICHMENT

The section on enrichment for spelling study of this manual is designed to follow the same procedure as the traditional/I.C.P. section. Initial lessons of this section (those involving spelling demons and rules) include more material each week than the traditional/ I.C.P. lessons.

Beginning with Lesson 10, students become responsible for spelling, pronunciation, and vocabulary. The words found in these remaining lessons are new or are less familiar to students than those words included in the first nine lessons.

Teachers having classes of enrichment or traditional classes with good spellers will find this section helpful.

Lesson 8

Use this humorous poem to introduce plurals:

We'll begin with a box, and the plural is boxes
But the plural of ox should be oxen, not oxes.
Then one fowl is goose, but two are called geese
Yet the plural of moose should never be meese.
You may find a lone mouse or a whole lot of mice
But the plural of house is houses, not hice.
If the plural of man is always called men
Why shouldn't the plural of pan be called pen?
The cow in the plural may be cows or kine.
But the plural of vow is vows, not vine.
But I speak of a foot and you show me your feet
But I give you a boot - would a pair be called beet?
If one is a tooth and a whole set are teeth
Why shouldn't the plural of booth be called beeth?
If the singular is this, and the plural is these.
Should the plural of kiss be nicknamed kese?
Then one may be that, and three may be those.
Yet the plural of hat would never be hose.
We speak of a brother, and also of brethren
But though we say Mother, we never say Methern.
The masculine pronouns are he, his and him,
But imagine the feminine she, shis and shim.
So that English, I think you will all agree
Is the trickiest language you ever did see!

WORD HUNT: PLURALS

To form the plural of most words, add S. Example: PAN, PANS.

If the word ends with CH, SH, SS, or X, add ES. Example: WISH, WISHES.

If the word ends with Y and a consonant is before the Y, change the Y to I. Then add ES. Example: SKY, SKIES.

For some words that end with F, change the F to V. Then add ES. Example: THIEF, THIEVES.

Some words do not change from singular to plural. Example: SHEEP, SHEEP.

There are 18 singular form words listed below. Can you find their plural forms in the puzzle? Some are spelled from left to right. Some are spelled from right to left. Some are spelled upwards. Some are spelled downwards. Some are spelled diagonally. And some letters are used more than once to form words.

When you find a plural, circle it. Then write it beside its singular form. Check your answers with your teacher.

WORD HUNT: SUFFIXES

A suffix is added at the end of a word. The new word is longer, and it has a new meaning. For example: SELF + ISH = SELFISH.

There are 15 words to which suffixes have been added in this puzzle. Some are spelled from left to right. Some are spelled from right to left. Some are spelled upwards. Some are spelled downwards. Some are spelled diagonally. And some letters are used more than once to form words.

The words without their suffixes are listed below. When you find a word with its suffix, circle it. Then write the suffix after the word it goes with. Check your answers with your teacher.
